Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

With the wife graduating from college tonight, we have attended several functions which we normally miss.

One of these was the Alumni Dinner which was held on Saturday night.

It was a pleasant affair.

The program moved swiftly, talks were short and to the point, and the food the best we have eaten at a SUB dinner.

Ralph Tessenier delivered a fine talk liberally sprinkled with some good stories as usual.

Max Carman got the Distinguished Professor Award and it could not have gone to a nicer person. A brilliant mathematician, Max got his Ph.D. as a very young man. We don't know the exact age but it was before he was 25.

A capable instructor and department head, Max Carman is a genuinely friendly person. He is deserving of this award which carried with it a check for $500.

His acceptance speech was composed of four words, "Thank you very much."

Several folks at the dinner from the 1926 graduating class, the first class to graduate. All looked well.

Dr. Ralph Woods is investigating the installation of new lights at the base of the two towers on Elizabeth Hall. The present lights are at the top and shine downward, but

The Miller Funeral Home is in charge of the arrangements.

Weather Report

Clear to partly cloudy and cool through Tuesday. High today mostly in the 70s. Low tonight mostly in upper 60s.

Accident Puts Hazel In Dark

A one car accident this morning at Hazel left all of west Hazel without electricity and caused the telephone service to go on battery service.

About three o'clock Alfred E. Greenay of Flint, Mich., driving a 1963 Chevrolet, missed the curve at the Kentucky and Tennessee line as he was going north on U. S. 641.

Greenay lost control of the car and hit a telephone booth, knocked down two power line poles causing three transformers to go out, and then his four cars on the Hill and Compton Used Car Lot, according to State Trooper Guy Turner who investigated the accident.

Passengers in the car with Greenay were his son, Alvin Greenay, and Terry Raver, both of Flint, Mich. They were enroute home after having been in Tennessee. None of the men were reported to be injured.

Trooper Turner said he had been patrolling over the weekend and this was the first accident he had covered. Trooper Turner said he went to bed this morning at 6:30.

Citations Issued By City Police

Two persons cited for public drunkenness and one person for reckless driving were arrested by the Murray Police Department over the weekend.

Citations were issued to one person for speeding, four persons for improper registration, four persons for reckless driving, and one person for not having an operator's license, according to Patrolman Max Morris.

Hopkinsville Editor Found Dead Sunday

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (UP) — Tom Covington, managing editor of the Kentucky New Era, was found dead Sunday of a 22 caliber bullet wound of the head.

An inquest will be held to seek the cause of his death.

Police found a 22 caliber, single-shot rifle beside the body in the victim's car, parked on a secluded road off Ky. 194 near Lake Barkley.

Covington had been dead about 24 hours, police said.

The victim became managing editor of the Hopkinsville daily last Aug. 16.

WITH U.S. COMBAT AIR FORCES, Vietnam — Staff Sergeant John E. Fussell, son of Ralph E. Fussell of 19159 Trinity, Detroit, is now in Vietnam in the fight against Communist aggression.

Sergeant Fussell is an aircraft radio repairman in the Pacific Air Forces which provides air offensive and defensive units in Southeast Asia, the Far East and Pacific.

The sergeant's wife, Patricia, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. McDaniel, who reside on Route 3, Murray, Ky.

406 Are Dead Thus Far In Holiday Toll

by United Press International

The Memorial Day weekend traffic death toll pushed past 400 today and safety experts feared the final figure would topple the record for tragedy on the nation's highways.

With the most dangerous period yet to come, the death count was running about 80 ahead of last year's record.

A United Press International count at 9 a.m. EDT today showed at least 406 persons dead in traffic accidents since the holiday started at 6 p.m. local time Friday. The breakdown:

Traffic	406
Drownings	84
Planes	6
Miscellaneous	59
Total	555

Michigan, home of the Motor City, led all states with 31 traffic deaths reported. California and New York had 27, followed by Pennsylvania with 23 and Illinois and Florida with 20.

Only Vermont, Rhode Island, Alaska and Hawaii reported no fatal highway accidents.

The record for a three-day Memorial Day weekend was set last year, when 490 persons died. The record for a four-day Memorial Day holiday was set in 1963 when 525 persons were killed in traffic mishaps.

A National Safety Council spokesman said it appeared the final toll would be "at least at the top of the pre-holiday estimated and perhaps even exceed it." The council had predicted between 460 and 540 persons would die in traffic between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight tonight.

FREE KITTENS

Three yellow kittens are available at as pets at 1504 Johnson Boulevard. The kittens are free and will make excellent pets for some child.

John Dennis, 26, who began work as an auto mechanic last week at the nearby Blake Auto Clinic, noticed the crowd and went over to see the cause of the disturbance.

"I don't know why nobody else went to help that kid," Dennis said later. "But when I saw him there, his clothing burning, I knew I had to do something and do it fast."

Dennis vaulted the fence and ran down a ramp to the tracks below. Picking up the boy, he began to smother the flames as he carried him up to the street.

"This motorist stopped. We ripped off the burning clothes and wrapped the boy in a garment that was in the car," said Dennis.

The two men then drove Ronnie to Brookdale Hospital, where he was treated for third degree burns and placed on the critical list.

Most Businesses Take Holiday Today

Most business houses are closed today with groceries and service stations remaining open. The Court House offices are closed for the day as well as the Post Office.

Amusement places are open for the day and with the sunny weather, the beaches at Kentucky Lake State Park and Kentucky Dam State Park are expected to be crowded.

EDUCATION BUILDING ADDITION—Three new floors are being added to the Education Building at Murray State College, Murray, for graduate school offices, a complete hearing and speech laboratory, classrooms, offices and laboratories for the psychology and education departments. The addition is scheduled for completion in the fall.

Crowd Watches As Boy Grovels Helplessly After Hitting Line

NEW YORK (UP) — An 11-year-old boy groveled helplessly on the railroad tracks Sunday, vainly trying to extinguish his burning clothes. High above the railroad about 50 people stood gaping at him, listening to his screams for help.

No one in the crowd offered to go to the boy's aid.

But for the "uncommon" decency of a young auto mechanic, who ignored the "don't get involved" psychology of the crowd to rescue young Ronnie Perez, the incident might have ended in tragedy.

Ronnie had been playing with some friends on a concrete embankment over the tracks of a Long Island Railroad freight yard in Brooklyn.

The boy suddenly missed his footing and fell 40 feet to the tracks below. On the way down, Ronnie struck at least one of the 12,000-volt, high-tension lines strung over the yards, setting his clothing ablaze.

Curious passers-by, hearing the crackle of the struck power line, gathered to watch the injured, but still conscious boy, on the tracks, flailing his clothing and crying pitifully.

John Dennis, 26, who began work as an auto mechanic last week at the nearby Blake Auto Clinic, noticed the crowd and went over to see the cause of the disturbance.

"I don't know why nobody else went to help that kid," Dennis said later. "But when I saw him there, his clothing burning, I knew I had to do something and do it fast."

Dennis vaulted the fence and ran down a ramp to the tracks below. Picking up the boy, he began to smother the flames as he carried him up to the street.

"This motorist stopped. We ripped off the burning clothes and wrapped the boy in a garment that was in the car," said Dennis.

The two men then drove Ronnie to Brookdale Hospital, where he was treated for third degree burns and placed on the critical list.

Dr. Carman Wins Award At Alumni Dinner

Dr. Max G. Carman, chairman of the mathematics department, has been named winner of the "Distinguished Professor Award" given annually by the Murray State College Alumni Association.

Dr. Carman received the award of $500 at the association's annual banquet on Saturday, May 28.

Dr. Carman joined the Murray faculty in 1928 after completing his Ph. D. degree at the University of Illinois. He is the third winner of the "Distinguished Professor Award."

Previous winners are Dr. C. S. Lowry, chairman of the social sciences department, and Dr. Linn Spann, of the biology department.

Mrs. Henry Chambers, Paducah, was installed as president of the Murray Alumni Association at the banquet. William Carmel, Owensboro, was installed as president-elect, and Bobby Dale Carman, Mayfield, as vice-president.

Ten 1966 high school graduates, Neil R. Farris, Southern High School, Louisville; Bill H. Flynn, Fresh; Judith Ann Hargis, Murray; Kathleen Hess, South Park High School, Buffalo, N.Y.; Michael S. Peek, Benton; Connie Polard, Carmi, Ill.; Robert D. Robertson, Lyon County; Thomas G. Wallis, Lowe, and Lois and Joyce Wootton, Madisonville, were presented alumni scholarships of $400 at the banquet.

Eight of the scholarship winners were valedictorians of their classes. The other two ranked third in large classes.

Four members of Murray's first graduating class, the Class of 1926, attended the banquet and presented a resolution to change the name of the alumni association to the Murray State University Alumni Association, as the school's university status will become official June 18. The 1926 graduates were Miss Evelyn Linn, Mrs. Reba Miller, Mrs. Martha Carter, and M. O. Wrenthall, all of Murray.

Dr. Ralph Tessenier, dean of the Murray graduate school, was principal speaker at the banquet.

FIREMEN CALLED

The Murray Fire Department answered a call last night at 7:30 to a car fire at Thomas Grocery on the Mayfield Road near Five Points. The firemen used CO<sub>2</sub> to extinguish the flames on a blue Oldsmobile. One truck was used to answer the call by the firemen.

Vandalism Reported At Carter School

Carter Elementary School on South 13th Street was broken into sometime over the weekend, according to the Murray Police Department.

Entry to the school was gained by breaking a window on the west side of the school building near the lunch room door. Eggs and pickle relish were thrown on the walls of the lunch room, according to Patrolmen Martin Wells and Max Morris who investigated the breakin.

Nothing else was found to be missing. Dennis Taylor, principal of the school, discovered the break in this morning at seven o'clock and notified the Police.

$12.8 Million In Construction At MSU Is Underway

Ten major construction projects, to cost $12.8 million, are scheduled for the building program at Murray State College at Murray this summer, according to Dr. Ralph H. Woods, president of the college.

The work includes three additions to existing buildings and seven new structures. Three new floors are being added to the Education Building making it a six-story structure. The additional floors will contain graduate school offices, a complete hearing and speech laboratory, classrooms, offices and laboratories for the psychology and education departments. The building is to be ready for occupancy at the start of the fall term.

The addition of a four-floor wing south of the present library is scheduled for use by Nov. 1. It will provide reading space, a curriculum laboratory, a complete periodical stack room, and 45 individual study alcoves for faculty and graduate students. The addition will give the college adequate library space for 7,000 students. The present enrollment at Murray is 5,481 and the estimated enrollment for the fall term is 6,500.

Murray will become a State University this summer by virtue of a bill passed by the 1966 Kentucky Legislature.

An addition to the College High School is presently in the planning stage with construction expected to be started by mid-summer.

Other buildings being constructed at Murray include Hart Hall, a dormitory which will house 502 men, and which is 90 per cent complete; 48 one-bedroom apartments for married students, 90 per cent complete; White Hall, a dormitory for 400 men, 50 per cent complete; Hester Hall, a dormitory for 390 women, 5 per cent complete, and a nursing building, 5 per cent complete.

An administration building and a science building are near the construction stage with contracts expected to be let during the summer.

Fastest Race Is Seen For Annual Memorial Day Classic

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP) — Every factor... weather, drivers and cars... pointed toward the fastest 500 mile race ever in the 50th Speedway Classic today.

Forecasters anticipated a cool, sunny day with a high temperature about 75, the best prospect for speed that the race has enjoyed in a decade.

The fastest field in history, 33 cars averaging 160.251 miles per hour in the 10 mile qualifying test, was ready to go in the chase for a total purse which might reach $700,000.

Some of the world's top speed pilots were to be in the cockpit. Among them were defending champion Jimmy Clark of Scotland, former winners Roger Ward, A. J. Foyt and Parnelli Jones, and the record setter for both one and four laps in qualifying with speeds of 166.223 and 165.899 m.p.h., Mario Andretti.

Record Crowd Expected

The combination of past speed, name drivers and weather was expected to pull another record crowd of more than 300,000 into the vast enclosure built around and inside of the 2 1/2 mile oval track of asphalt.

The race will be another tremendous test of commercial products. Firestone tires, dominant on the track for years, were on 17 of the starting cars. Goodyear supplied the other 16. Twenty-four of the vehicles were powered by Ford engines, mounted in the rear, the same type vehicle which Clark rode to victory at 156.56 m.p.h. last year.

The other nine cars carried Offenhauser engines, modifications of the breed for speed which has been pre-eminent on the track since World War II.

Three of these were turbo-charged, and three supercharged. The race was slated to be visible to hundreds of thousands through theater television, slated for four hours to cover both the prelude and climax of the race which should last about three hours and 10 minutes.

Andretti, making his second start, was a logical favorite as well as the people's choice by virtue of his qualifying records plus hundreds of miles of driving experience in the tests on the track.

No One Overlooking

But none of the former champions was completely overlooked. Clark, who led for 190 of the 200 laps last year to become the first foreign winner since World War I, was the start in the front row, next to pole winner Andretti. Jones was to be immediately behind Andretti in the second of the starting 11 rows of three cars each. Ward will be on the outside of the fifth row and Foyt on the outside of the sixth.

There was speculation that the field would begin its chase at speeds in excess of 160 miles per hour, and there was some expectation that Foyt, in his determination to become an early contender, would push the 15 cars ahead of him to the utmost in his surge.

Track officials touched only briefly on the grim possibility of wrecks during Sunday's driver's meeting.

Henry Banks, director of competition for the U.S. Auto Club, which sanctions the race, warned the seven rookies in the field of the "tremendous windstorm" and "turbulence" they can expect when the full field charges into the first turn, propelled partially by the full fuel load of 70 gallons in each car.

BULLETIN

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP) — At least nine cars cracked up in a mass of spins less than 200 yards from the start of the 500-mile race today and the race was stopped immediately.

Quotes From The News

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

WASHINGTON — The Rev. George R. Davis, in a sermon heard by President Johnson:

"We witness on Memorial Day an expression of love as it goes out in memory and as it ought to go out in profound appreciation to those who carry burdens for us on the far-flung battle lines of the world."

WASHINGTON — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., in an address at Howard University:

"The era of compromise is gone. You cannot compromise man's right to be free nor can you sit down and reason together whether man should have some rights today and more rights tomorrow."

NEW YORK — A spokesman for Brooklyn's Malmonides Hospital after the death of Mrs. Louise Ceraso, who underwent a heart pump implantation 13 days ago:

"Mrs. Ceraso was a gallant and courageous lady and we mourn her bravery and her beautiful spirit."

CAPE KENNEDY — Benjamin Milwitzky, program manager for the Surveyor lunar robot, just before launch time:

"I personally think it would be a very extraordinary thing if it went all the way, but we're going to try."

A Bible Thought For Today

Man doth not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord doth man live.

—Deuteronomy 8:3.

How many people today live as though life were nothing but food, clothing and the luxurious trinkets of our modern world. And yet, how often those who are poor in earthly wealth but rich in fellowship with God are truly contented.

Jim Grant Gives Indians The Blues

By CURT BLOCK

UPI Sports Writer

Jim Grant found his rhythm and gave Cleveland the blues.

Grant, who supplements his off season income with a touring night club act, was the Minnesota Twins' top hurler when they captured the American League pennant in 1965 and led the circuit with six shutouts.

Mudrot was so impressed with his 21 regular season wins and two World Series triumphs that he missed almost a month of spring training haggling over contract terms before settling for the inevitable compromise.

The layoff undoubtedly hurt the Minnesota right-hander the first month of the season. His fourth, 1-0, whitewash of the Indians Sunday was only his fourth win against five losses—quite shabby compared to the 5-0 mark he compiled over the first two months of the '66 campaign.

Win Doubleheader

He was the Grant of old Sunday as he completed a sweep of the first place Indians after Jim Kaat had gone the route in the first half of a doubleheader, winning 5-1.

Elsewhere in the American League, Washington bested Boston 3-2; Chicago clipped New York 2-0; Kansas City belted Baltimore 6-3.

In the National League, San Francisco slipped past Philadelphia 6-5 in 10 innings; Chicago beat Atlanta 3-2; St. Louis defeated Cincinnati by identical 3-2 scores in 10 innings; it took Houston 11 innings to edge Pittsburgh 3-2 and the Mets rallied to down the Dodgers 7-6.

Victories have been hard to come by for the defending champions recently. The Twins had lost eight of their last nine games going into Sunday's twinbill.

Kaat scattered eight hits and Tony Oliva powered his 10th homer to snap Cleveland's five game win streak and the Twins' three game slide in the opener. Earl Batley batted in two runs in the first game and singled home the only run in the eighth inning of the nightcap.

Batley's single, one of three Minnesota hits leaving pitcher Luis Tiant allowed, followed a leadoff walk to Harmon Killebrew, a force at second by Sandy Valdespino and a stolen base.

Ties AL Mark

Phil Ortega tied an American League record with seven consecutive strikeouts and Don Lock clouted a 477-foot, three-run homer in the first inning for one of the two hits the Senators managed off Boston pitching. Ortega did not give up a hit until the eighth inning when the Red Sox sent him to the bench with a two run rally.

Mickey Mantle misplayed a fly ball by Don Buford in the third inning and the result was a triple that scored Wayne Causey from second with all the runs Tommy John needed in his three-hit shutout of the Yankees. Tom McCraw's blop single drove in Buford with the second-run.

California rookie Rick Reichardt's two run homer in the sixth inning backed the three-hit hurling of George Brunet as the Tigers dropped their fifth game in the last six. Reichardt's 12th homer of the year followed Jose Cardenal's single. Brunet evened his record at 2-3 and shifted eight.

Joe Nosenko knocked in two runs with a double and scored another to pace Kansas City's seven hit attack. Ken Harrison added a 400-foot homer and Danny Coker and Phil Roof stroked two hits each. Catfish Hunter posted his fourth victory against three defeats although he worked only six innings and needed relief help from Jack Aker, who held Baltimore scoreless over the final three frames.

Captain Ron Santo Leads Through Example, "Ideal Man"

By JOE GERGEN

UPI Sports Writer

Captain Ron Santo believes in leadership through example.

Santo, the field captain of the Chicago Cubs, is not considered a "holler guy" by his teammates but his fierce competitive desire and inspirational impact have made him an ideal man for the job.

"Whatever he does is infectious," marvels former Cub catcher Dick Bertell, "it hits the whole team."

Santo's competitive zeal, which transformed the once awkward, slow third baseman into an all-star and the best man at his position in the National League, has particularly impressed his new manager, gregarious Leo Durocher.

"He's my type of ballplayer," declares the Lip, and no one is likely to dispute him after Santo poked his second game-winning homer in as many days Sunday to give the Cubs an inspirational 3-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves in 10 innings.

Other Games

Elsewhere in the senior circuit, San Francisco increased its lead to 2 1/2 games by edging Philadelphia 6-5 in 10 innings. New York upended Los Angeles 7-6. Houston nipped Pittsburgh 3-2 in 11 innings and St. Louis stopped Cincinnati 3-2 in 10.

Santo, whose three-run homer in the 12th inning Saturday provided Chicago with an 8-5 victory over the Braves, connected for his ninth home run on a 3-2 pitch from Billy O'Dell leading off the 10th.

The only reason Santo's homer was needed was an unusual play in the ninth which accounted for Atlanta's second run. Eddie Mathews hit a drive down the rightfield line which the Cubs' Billy Williams ignored, thinking the ball was foul.

When first base umpire Bob Engel ruled the ball fair, Mathews sped around the bases for an inside-the-park homer. A violent argument ensued, but the decision was upheld.

Chuck Estrada, onetime bonus baby with the Baltimore Orioles, made his first appearance since joining the team from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League and was awarded the decision after pitching hitless ball over the last 1 2/3 innings.

Rookie Ollie Brown, who tied the game with a run-scoring single in the eighth, singled across Jim Ray Hart with the winning run in the 10th for the Giants. Brown knocked in three runs in the game with three hits. Ray hit his 12th home run and Willie Mays his 11th for San Francisco while reliever Lindy McDaniel retired the last nine Phillies in order for his third triumph.

Punch-hitter Bob Taylor doubled home a pair of runs in the ninth and then scored the winning run on Roy McMillan's single as the Mets rallied for their victory against reliever Ron Perrano. Los Angeles had taken a 6-4 lead in the eighth on Jim Lefebvre's second home run of the game, a two-run inside-the-park blow.

Jim Gentile led off the 11th inning for Houston with a 400-foot homer, his seventh, into the right field seats off Pittsburgh relief ace Alvaro Fene. John Bateman's two-run homer in the seventh had pulled the Astros into a 2-2 tie. Reliever Claude Raymond gained his second victory.

Cincinnati reliever Ted Davidson threw wildly to first base after fielding Curt Flood's sacrifice bunt attempt, allowing Bob Tolan to score from first with the winning run for the Cards. Tolan had walked to open the 10th. Joe Hoerner, who pitched one-hit ball over the final three innings, gained his first major league triumph.

"But you'll have to carry it. And if it starts to slow us down, you'll have to get rid of it." "It won't be any trouble," she said. Checking a canteen, he dropped down beside her. Releasing the brake, he moved to the left horses. "For years I've had to fight these mountaineers keep em from using their old mine road. Now, by Jupiter, they'll get their chance!" Letting out a sudden yell, he snatched off his hat and struck the nearest seat horse smartly across the rump. The animal bolted against the traces. The others, out of long habit, followed. With a lurch the empty stagecoach rolled off down the hill. Mae turned to Thursday, suddenly realizing this grizzled old desert rat was all that stood between her and a death too awful to contemplate. "How far is it to the relay station?" she asked. "Wouldn't wanna answer that," he grunted. Then he picked up her suitcase and smiled. "Never walked it before." She watched him start off into the rocks. Suddenly, unaccountably, she felt good about following.

Monday 12:40 P.M. Sheriff Ames rode easily in the saddle. Effortlessly he absorbed the trotting gait of his mount by leaning slightly forward and maintaining a firm pressure on the stirrups. Vin and T. J. rode a few feet behind him and not directly behind him, either. The two deputies stayed off to one side, "out of the alkali dust plume being churned up by his horse. Riding to higher ground, they rode in on what was to become a familiar sight. An isolated ranch house was under attack. It was made of logs and was situated in a clearing that had been hacked out of the surrounding sage and beavertail cactus. Occasional clumps of paloverde and ironwood provided what little shade there was. Yelling wildly and waving their rifles between shots, mounted Apaches were circling the house. No answering fire came from within.

Quickly Ames saw that either the fight was over or the house was empty. What he was witnessing was the aftermath, the moment of victory that invariably stirred a feeling of elation in every the most stoic of the Apaches. Grimly Ames determined to take advantage of this. His determination increased as he saw one of the hostiles disappearing. "You won't be needing that," he said. "We'll have to travel light." She watched him climb up to remove a double-barreled shotgun from beneath the driver's seat. "Please," she said. "Everything I own is in this bag. I ain't much, but I'd be lost without it." She watched as he tied off the reins. "Suit yourself," he shrugged.

mount and begin setting fire to a hay wagon in the ranch yard. In another few seconds, he knew, the burning wagon would be sent rolling against the house. "Vin," Ames snapped. "You circle around in back." Then turning to his younger deputy, he said, "We'll go straight in. T. J. Doesn't look like they've seen us yet. So don't fire 'til I do. As when you see me hit the dirt, you do the same." As Vin rode off at an angle, Ames and T. J. spurred their mounts forward. Before they were within one hundred yards of the house, the hostiles opened fire on them. Glancing off to make certain Vin was out of sight, Ames heard "a high-pitched whine of a bullet speeding past his ear. Ames had long ago learned to discount the popular tale that Apaches were poor riflemen, and now did the only thing there was for him to do. He did off his horse in mid-stride and let himself roll forward. He felt the first shock of the ground hitting his shoulder and was surprised when, glancing back, he saw a bullet hitting the wagon. Realizing the horsemen were now his best opportunity, Ames opened fire on them. T. J. was doing the same when they suddenly rode around the back of the house out of sight, taking the ridersless horse with them. All Ames could hope for now was that Vin would be locking his sights on the nearest hostile. Yet nothing happened. For what seemed an interminable moment, all was quiet. "Come on, Vin! Come on!" Ames growled anxiously under his breath. Then a burst of rifle fire off to one side in the brush told him Vin was doing his work. A moment later, the hostiles came riding out from behind the house. One of them was bleeding from the shoulder to start it rolling. As it lumbered toward the house, they veered off into a stand of paloverde. There did not seem to be an opening in the tangle of trees but they found one. Riding hard, they disappeared into a ravine. (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

Woman's World

Dream Of Record For Entire Life

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Claude E. Foraker dreams that one day everyone's medical history will be on record from pre-conception to the grave.

Such records kept in detail even from pre-conception on through life would mean giant strides in patient treatment physically, mentally and emotionally. In effect, it would be an instant guide to any physician on a patient's case history.

Dr. Foraker, clinical professor of medicine at Cornell University Medical College, and others in the medical world working with him already have made part of that dream a reality with medical passports.

Medical passport is an adult's health history, with the holder first filling out a detailed list of any ailments, any treatments, and such, then the record verified and amplified by his physician. Vital information is entered in the medical passport which the holder carries at all times.

This passport, designed the same size as the official State Department passport, already is carried by about 50,000 persons," said Foraker.

Another Giant Step
Now, this medical pioneer and his associates have made another giant step toward seeing that dream come true.

The Medical Passport Foundation, Inc., a non-profit philanthropy of which Foraker is executive director, announced this week similar recording of children's case history and the children's medical passport.

The passport is a health diary from pre-conception and conception through the 12th, 13th and 14th years when the adult history picks up.

"We know that at least 15 million persons in the United States have one or more congenital defects," said the physician.

"We know that from conception through the mother's period of carrying the child is the greatest rate of mortality. I believe that the first few days after conception are probably the most important in a person's whole life," said Foraker.

"Perhaps just as important is the environment of pre-conception. We know, for instance, that a mother's smoking can cause premature births."

BALKS AT STERILIZATION—Mrs. Nancy Hernandez, 21, is shown with her two children after choosing a 90-day jail term in Santa Barbara, Calif., over sterilization, a choice given by Municipal Judge Frank P. Kearney (inset). She had pleaded guilty to being in a room where marijuana was present. Her common-law husband, Joe Sampedo, 22, faces a felony charge for possession of marijuana. The judge gave no reason for his sterilization decision.

Because of this environmental factor, one whole section is a trial run of questions to parents or prospective parents on family history taken up such matters as—"did either parent have any unusual emotional problems at the time of conception?" and "had either . . . drunk any alcoholic beverage at the presumed time of conception? If so, how much?"

I interviewed Dr. Foraker in his office at the Foundation shortly before he moderated a panel of physicians discussing "a new approach to the study of congenital defects—physical, mental and emotional." The session was this week at the New York academy of science.

Foraker, a practicing physician since 1936 and a teacher almost as long, cited these statistics on birth defects:

Every two minutes a prenatally damaged infant is born. Birth defects are second only to heart disease as a cause of death. Birth defects take nearly twice as many lives as cancer, three times as many as stroke.

The nation has 5.4 million mentally retarded persons. Seven percent of all live births are defective.

Dr. Foraker said he believed detailed case history from pre-conception on might give insight into what causes many emotional and mental problems as well as physical—and help physicians in research on prevention too.

Knowing more about the patient's entire life span might give clues to why dropouts, why juvenile delinquents, why some people have "native resistance to disease, others are naturally susceptible."

Foraker's group will start a pilot project of data gathering with 100 women volunteers at St. Vincent's Hospital in New York.

Another part of the physician's dream—as computers make it possible to store vast amounts of material, there'd be a record bank on which any physician or any other authorized person could draw anytime and from anywhere.

Pop Giving Kids Bad Example

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I own a boat. We both love fishing and sometimes we stay on the river all night. Here's the problem: My husband can't swim a stroke and he refuses to wear a life preserver. He says he has to die sometime and he doesn't care how he goes.

We have five children, Abby. They range from 13 years old down to three. I get frightened half to death when we are in the boat with him and the waters get rough or a storm comes up. I am becoming a nervous wreck over this. Can you suggest something?

HIS WIFE: Tell your "hero" that even if HE doesn't care how he goes, YOU do. And you also care WHEN! Remind him that you didn't have those five children without his help, and you don't intend to raise them alone either. That ought to buoy the old boy up.

DEAR ABBY: About three weeks ago all of our relatives and several of our friends received wedding invitations to a mutual relative's wedding. We received no invitation and felt put out, but said nothing. You don't just call up people and ask them how come you weren't invited, do you? Three days before the wedding, I got this tearful phone call from the bride herself, apologizing all over the place because she'd heard we didn't get an invitation.

She said we were on her guest list and the invitation must have gotten "lost" in the mail. She begged us to come, but I hadn't responded for a gift, and I had nothing to wear, so I declined. Many of our relatives said they thought we should have gone. I would like your opinion.

OVERLOOKED: DEAR OVERLOOKED: I think you should have attended. If you had not been wanted, the bride would not have telephoned you personally. Your gift could have come later, and your attire would have been of little importance.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think about a high school that makes rules about how short a girl can wear her skirt? Also, they have rules about how the boys can dress their hair, and they won't let him raise a beard or mustache. Isn't that denying a person his individual freedom?

Don't you think if the kids' parents don't care, the teachers and principal should stay out of it? Please don't duck this question. Abby. We kids at Lincoln High want to know where you stand. THE KIDS AT LIN.

DEAR KIDS: I think it should be up to the parents, not the school, to determine how students should dress and wear their hair. But more important than fashion and hair styles is RESPECT FOR THE RULES.

If those who think the rules are unfair would invest as much time and energy in attempting to change them, as they do in defying them, the rules COULD be changed. And that, in my opinion, is the best way to strike a blow for individual freedom.

CONFIDENTIAL TO STUNNED BUT SILENT IN ELIZABETH, N. J.: Tell your hostess. If a very good friend of yours had had money taken from her purse while a guest in your home, wouldn't you want to be told about it?

For the Graduate A Wrist Watch Is A Fine Gift

SOFT LOOK gold oval watch with black leather strap is popular for daytime wear.

ELONGATED OVAL watch is attached to grooved gold hugs and chic mesh bracelet.

Wrist Alarm has jeweled-lever movement to insure the most accurate time and an alarm-setting dial at number six.

THE fascinating history of the watch began countless centuries ago and is almost as long as the history of the human race.

But to span the years since its creation as a "small time-piece to carry about the person" to its present widespread international use, man has become an addicted slave to the watch.

Indispensable Item
And, since the watch is now an indispensable item in our way of life, what better gift for a graduate than a fine, smart-looking wrist watch which will not only give the graduate much prideful joy but will be an hourly reminder of your affection and thoughtfulness?

This year the look in watches for the girl graduate is soft and feminine.

Mesh bracelets are making reappearance in softer and more flexible material and for a modernistic touch some cases are oiled.

For The Boy Graduate
There is a great variety of watches for the boy graduate including the chronograph which tells time, measures speed, distance, time intervals, etc., and the wrist alarm to alert him to get to classes or home on time.

The style of watch and make selected should depend solely upon the type of person who is to receive it and all the factors that will insure many years of trouble-free timekeeping should be carefully considered.
